There's also a Facebook page. Search for "Playing with Fire: A Medieval Outdoor Cooking Workshop"

NO FIREWOOD may be brought to the event. Firewood will be provided for classes. Charcoal is allowed.

There will be demonstrations, classes and three A&S competitions are planned. See the website for all the details. Feast will be a potluck of the day's creations. Afterwards Calontir just might sing.

Classes scheduled so far include:

- Fire tending
- Pot cooking
- Making and using a portable Roman stove
- Bread baking without an oven
- Cooking in crockery over coals
- Large animal cooking
- Fish and fowl cleaning
- Cheese making
- How to identify temperatures without a thermometer
- Period spices
- Hearth cooking
- Cooking large fowl over an open flame
- Food safety

Camping: There is room for tents near the main building as well as a limited number of bunks available for rent for $10 each (10 bunks per cabin). Bunks reservations must be pre-paid. Send checks (made out to SCA, Inc. – Barony of Forgotten Sea) to Event Steward. Eight motels are within a 15-minute drive.

Directions: Take your best route to I-29 just south of St. Joseph, MO. At Exit 44 take US 169 South. Approximately 5 miles later, turn left onto Hillard Rd. SE. Camp entrance is ½ mile down road on the left.

Event Stewards: Master Mathurin Kerbusso (Rex Deaver, 9201 Mastin St., Overland Park, KS 66212 913-909-0397) and Lady Ayisha bint Asad (Alyssa Crawford), cooking_eventsteward@bfs-kc.org.
